Hooper, Lundy & Bookman is pleased to announce that Nina Marsden, a partner in the Los Angeles office, has been selected as a 2022 Fellow of the Leadership Council on Legal Diversity (LCLD), and Andrea Frey, a San Francisco associate, was chosen to be part of the 2022 class of LCLD Pathfinders.

Since 2011, the LCLD Fellows and Pathfinder programs have helped identify and mentor the next generation of diverse legal leaders. The LCLD Fellows Program is a year-long professional development program designed to connect high-potential attorneys from prominent organizations with industry leaders. The program offers exclusive benefits to attorneys seeking to enhance their leadership and client-management skills by gaining access to and learning from the top professionals in the legal field immediately and in the future.

The LCLD Pathfinder Program was established for diverse, high-performing, early-career attorneys at LCLD Member organizations. The seven-month program complements training initiatives at LCLD Member corporations and law firms. It provides Pathfinders with tools for developing and leveraging professional networks through relationship-building skills, foundational leadership skills, and an understanding of career development strategies. In addition, each Pathfinder is matched with a Program Facilitator to serve as a mentor in helping one connect what they learn in the program to the organization at which they work.

"Our firm is deeply committed to promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion across all areas of our business, and we are delighted that Nina and Andrea have been selected to participate in programs that support diversity and foster professional development," said Mark Reagan, Managing Partner. "Nina has demonstrated a steadfast commitment to leadership throughout her career, and Andrea is an example of an upcoming leader who is dedicated to HLB's diversity, inclusion, and equity initiatives."
