Request for Information on Regulatory Reform on Artificial Intelligence

Digital Health   10.01.25

The Office of Science and Technology Policy (OSTP) is seeking public input to identify federal statutes, regulations, and administrative processes that may hinder the development and adoption of AI technologies in the U.S. This Request for Information invites feedback from industry, academia, government entities, and other stakeholders to help shape future regulatory reforms that promote AI innovation. Comments are due October 27.
