Monica Massaro serves as a panelist for “Algorithms and Advocacy: Navigating AI in Federal & State Health Care Policy,” on November 3, 2025, at the Association of American Medical Colleges Annual Meeting.

This session will explore the latest federal efforts to regulate AI in health care, covering key issues like liability, data privacy, algorithmic bias, and transparency. Attendees will gain insights into executive orders, congressional legislation, hearings, and agency initiatives shaping the future of AI. We will also discuss self-regulation, industry standards, and the role of assurance labs in ensuring responsible AI use. As calls for transparency and accountability grow, this session will provide essential guidance for providers, payers, and researchers navigating the evolving federal AI policy landscape.
